Dear Peter

I am writing to you wearing the hat of the President of the RSC Education Division.

Plans are beginning to be made for the programme for the 2009 IUPAC Glasgow meeting. The Scientific Committee is in receipt of a number of proposals for symposia in all areas of chemistry. For chemistry education we are proposing four (contiguous) half days centred on Employability, Assessment, Problem Solving and on Practical Work.

However, it occurred to me that the IUPAC Committee on Chemistry Education (which I understand you chair) may have independent proposals in this area. In my view, it would be foolish for us not to ensure that we have a coherent chemistry education programme at the meeting. Your comments and discussion would be greatly valued.

Best regards

Stuart
